Advices from New Orleans give the de-tails of the surrender of Kirby Smith's forces, but the main facts have already been stated. The report says some of the rebel Generals had asked permission of General Canby to be allowed to take 20. 000 of their troops scross the Rio Grande into Mexico, to aid Juarez. The rebel Generals were very anxions to obtain permission to ship outton enough to psy their troops, but the scheme fell through. The rebel General Price had gone to Galveston on the transport Clinton, and Generals Buckner and Brent returned to Alexandria, accompanied by General Herron, who will arrange for the occupation of the country by Union armies. General Balley's expedition from Mobils had a rived at Baton Rouge, and were received by the people along the whole line
